What Coaches Have to Say:

"In general, FCA is making a strong effort to connect the world of athletics with the life that is found in Jesus Christ. Over the last few years I have seen this to a degree that I have not seen before. The distance camp provides a forum for students to process how their effort, their pain, their sweat can honor God."

Brady Bonsall
Co-Head Track and Field Coach
Head Cross Country Coach
University of Nebraska -Kearney

"The Nebraska FCA Distance Camp is a unique camp experience that challenges young runners to become complete people, both spiritually and physically. Participants will learn a great deal about distance running, but more importantly they can learn how to develop a strong relationship with Jesus Christ. You will develop good friendships with other like-minded runners and learn principles that will be a benefit to you for the rest of your life."

Jay Dirksen
Head Cross Country Coach
University of Nebraska-Lincoln

"I have taken about a dozen runners to the FCA distance running camp the last 2 years and am extremely encouraged at what the runners take away from the camp. Some of the finest college coaches in Nebraska take part in the clinic and have a very hands on approach. The camp helps with running but more importantly makes a complete runner in both physical and spiritual aspects. Also some of the best college athletes form a bond with all the students at the camp that encourages them throughout the year and years to come."
